

CEC Launches Executive Director Search With Sterling Martin Associates and Board of Directors

Arlington, Va., August 16, 2019 – The Council for Exceptional Children (CEC) has opened its search for an executive director, in partnership with executive search firm Sterling Martin Associates. The announcement follows Alexander T. Graham’s departure as Executive Director of CEC on July 19, 2019, when he became President and CEO of Future Business Leaders of America-Phi Beta Lambda, Inc.

Over the coming months, Sterling Martin Associates will be accepting resumes, at which point suitable candidates will be contacted for next steps. The CEC Board of Directors will oversee this process over the last half of 2019, with a goal of identifying the new ED by early 2020. Until then, Chief Financial Officer (CFO) Craig Evans will continue to support the organization and transition process as Interim Executive Director.

“During this transition period, it will be our priority to find the best individual to lead, while still maintaining a stable and effective organization,” said CEC President Mary Lynn Boscardin. “We look forward to the next chapter of CEC and its important work of advancing the success of children and youth with exceptionalities through advocacy, standards, and professional development.”

The job description and information for interested parties is available at smartinsearch.com/council-for-exceptional-children/. Please note that candidates should send a cover letter and current resumé (Microsoft Word® format preferred) directly to CEC@smartinsearch.com.

The Council for Exceptional Children (CEC) is a professional association of educators dedicated to advancing the educational success of children and youth with exceptionalities. We accomplish our mission through advocacy, standards, and professional development. Learn more at cec.sped.org.